NOTIONS ON PROMOTION by Don Piehota, RR 1 Box 118, Byars, OK 74831

Let's have a corner of the ADCA Bulletin devoted to how to promote and sell Dexters. Everyone thinks they'll be a natural at this because Dexters sell themselves, but the breeder can keep his herd the best kept secret in his state by poor promotional practices and he can make it impossible for his Dexters to sell themselves in as many ways as your least favorite mouthwash or used car commercial has turned you away.

Here are some samples of techniques we can exchange:

#1 Where do I advertise?
#2 Where don't I advertise? (equally important if your budget is limited.)

Some Answers:

#1 First, advertise in everything free again and again. Fifty free ads to bring in the sale of one animal is the biggest bargain in advertising. In addition, thousands of people are now aware of you at the cost of 50 stamps. Secondly, advertise in media that is used by people who value your unique product, or who would value it if they knew it existed.

#2 Honestly face who would be disinterested or even opposed to your product - can you financially afford to challenge these people, or emotionally afford their rejection. So why pay all your ad budget for an ad in Progressive Dairy Person or the Angus & Hereford Breeders Quarterly (made-up names)? These people have a different point of view and are stubbornly committed to their breed. Your $100 ad will get you 3 phone calls - at least two from rural comedians, and the third will try to convert you.

REPORT FROM THE CENTRAL STATES REGION

The Cass family of Glenmont, Ohio showed their Dexter steer, Zach, at their Holmes Co Baby Beef Club show this past August. Their daughter was awarded 2 blue ribbons even though he weighed 625 lbs and stood 40'' tall at the hip. Zach later dressed out at 369 lbs of well finished, well marbled beef. NOT BAD!

The Cass's met with their livestock sale committee, and have permission to sell Dexter steers at their 1987 fair. With this in mind, they bought Abraham and Jacob from the Johnsons' Briar Hill Farm in Richfield, Ohio. Both daughters are going to show.

We certainly wish you well!

Also in Holmes County, Ohio, our Brian o' Briar Hill paid a visit to Deidre o' Briar Hill, the little heifer who went to the Levi Stutzman farm last year. Hopefully, his visit will produce a lovely heifer calf for them. And, Meggie o' Briar Hill went along with Brian to join Deidre, getting the little Stutzman herd off to a good start. You do know that Holmes county is the dairyland of Ohio!

DON'T FORGET to mark your calendars for the annual meeting next July 10, 11 & 12. Don Piehota will be handling all the details this time, and as this is not his first one, (Pittsburgh in the late '70's) we shall be expecting nothing but the best!
HOW WE DO IT AT WILLOW CREEK by Dan Harrell, Director Region 4

Willow Creek Farm is the name my wife, Marie, and I gave the farm land we bought back in the early seventies. We both had a farm background but had lived in Austin, Texas since 1938. Then the rat race got too much for us and we began looking for land and elbow room.

We first heard of Dexter Cattle when an article appeared in Organic Gardening Magazine in January 1976. It was about Don Piehota's place, then in Pennsylvania, with comments from Daisy Moore and probably others.

We wrote for information and a list of breeders in this area. The only real lead was the herd at Texas A&M Research Farm, and they were only selling bulls. About a year later we got a notice of a dispersal sale of that herd. After offering several sealed bids, we came home with a bull, 2 cows and a bull calf. Shortly afterwards, the other cow presented us with our first heifer calf.

At this point I had never had any experience raising and caring for beef type cattle so we began handling them as a dairy herd and we still do. Although we milk only 1 to 4 cows at a time they are all brought into the lot every night where they are given a small amount of hay.

Until this year we got by with only 6 acres of pasture but since our herd has increased to more than twenty, something had to be done so I took 40 acres of pasture away from the renter. This has reduced the supplemental feeding a lot but they still get a little hay every day even in summer, and every 2 days they each get about one pound of grain mixed with 41% cottonseed meal and mineral supplement. This is all fed individually.

The cows we milk get more, of course, and in winter or on a hot summer day all rations are increased accordingly.

Baby calves nurse twice daily till about 3 or 4 months of age at which time they are eating hay, grass and grain. Then we wean them and they get a little special attention and are turned into another pasture with the other calves every day. The heifers stay with this group till breeding age, 14 months, and the steers from 12 to 18 months depending on the market and pasture.

At about four months, all calves are dehorned and get a Black-leg vaccination, heifers get Brucellosis vaccination, and bulls are castrated unless they look especially promising.

All cattle are wormed at least twice a year. If they are forced to graze a short pasture, they get an extra worming.

We just recently received our Certification from the State Dept. of Agriculture designating a certified Brucellosis-free herd. It takes 2 years to get this certification. To maintain it, I have to send all blood tests to the State lab regularly every year and have 100% negative test. Also this includes all cattle on the place. The advantage is just good P.R., which improves each year.

Also, the manure is piled in the middle of the lot every day and about twice a year I rent a manure spreader and distribute it on the pasture. This procedure may seem quite labor intensive, but I have the time now and enjoy the daily hands-on attention to the entire herd. Consequently, I have very good control of them all.

Sincerely,

Dan

This looks like a perfect little space into which to slip congratulations to Helen and Russ Berry of Canada on the birth of their son on November 10th! He will surely grow up to love and raise Dexter cattle along with his parents.
A computerized search for current printed information on Dexter cattle revealed 27 articles, studies or books indexed by CAB (Commonwealth Agricultural Bureau) ABSTRACTS between 1972 and June 1986. Some materials deal primarily with Dexters. Others consider Dexters as part of studies on some aspect of cattle management or rare animal preservation. A search of AGRICOLA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture database, and of AGRIS, the agricultural sciences database of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, uncovered two additional articles.

CAB ABSTRACTS is an outstanding international data base of scientific agricultural information covering more than 10,000 journals as well as books, reports and other publications. Veterinary medicine is a particular strength.

The journal articles found are listed here. The balance of the material will be printed in the next Bulletin.

We had a lovely letter from Beryl Rutherford of England this last month. Beryl hates cold, and I guess cold is about all they've had over there for so long she feels strange in shirt sleeves. She says almost all hay crops were taken as silage because there wasn't enough dry weather to make the hay. Hope things get better over there, Beryl!

Letter from the President

1987 will bring about a number of changes for the American Dexter Cattle Association.

At the annual meeting the Board of Directors elected Dean Fleharty to the office of President effective January 1, 1987. I wish Dean all the success as he takes over the reins of a very rapidly growing organization. We have had growing pains and I feel certain that some of those pains will continue in the future as we continue to grow.

I wish to thank all those individuals that have worked with me in the past several years and hope that they will continue their support of the new officers and the Association. Please remember that we are basically a volunteer unpaid type of organization, that requires many long hours of time by those individuals that try to keep forging ahead on behalf of the entire group. Please help support the Association and see if there is some way that you may be able to give some time, perhaps as a Director or committee person.

I certainly wish to express my appreciation to Kay Moore Baker for serving the Association as Secretary/Treasurer and even before in assisting her mother Daisy Moore when Daisy was serving as Secretary/Treasurer. Many long hours were put in to try to fill the needs of the membership. It is hard to visualize the vast amount of time required. Thanks very much Kay, from a person that realizes all the time you gave.

Perhaps now is the time to start planning for the ADCA meeting to be held in Oklahoma City on July 10 to 12th. Mark your calendars so that there will be a good turn out and let's have a good time. See you there.

Perhaps some of you have been as lax as we have in sending in your registrations or transfers. Now is the time to get all these up to date so that we have some idea of the number of Dexters in North America. Good sound statistics would probably help with some of the sales promotions that the Association is gearing toward.

The Holiday Season is rapidly approaching and we would like to wish each of you Season's Greetings and a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

I have enjoyed my tenure of office, and will continue to do my part for a splendid organization, The American Dexter Cattle Association

Sincerely,

[Signature]
